

LOCAL NEWS.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES, June 3, 1879.
For the Middle Atlantic States generally lower pressure, lower or nearly stationary temperature, variable winds, mostly from east to south, generally cloudy weather and numerous rains.

THE STORM.—Brief mention was made in yesterday's Gazette of the storm which occurred just before going to press.

The storm was one of the severest experienced in this city for many years. The wind was very violent and the hail which accompanied it was large and fell in considerable quantity. The rain which followed drenched the streets and washed everything before it.

Among the damages by the storm are the following: Fair Grounds, gate and stalls blown down and glass broken; Hicks' store, near the canal locks, backbuilding blown down; M. Patton's store, same neighborhood, stable unroofed and shed blown down; a new frame house near Colross, was blown partly off its foundations, and several boys who had taken refuge there were badly scared. A house across the canal occupied by a colored family named Hancock had its roof blown off the remains falling inside, but fortunately injuring nobody. A shed covering the horse stalls at the Virginia house was blown down and carried across the street. The foundations of Mr. Geo. McBarney's new building, corner of Washington and King streets were so washed that a portion fell in. The steamers John Gibson and Mattano which were endeavoring to make a landing at the wharf, were blown off and had to keep in mid-channel. The horses which were exposed to the pelting hail, at the wharves and on the streets were very much frightened and ran hither and thither creating much confusion and excitement. The loss of window glass in the city is immense. In many buildings a whole pane is lost. In the Midland depot and shops it is estimated that only one thousand panes were broken. Among the other more severe sufferers were the Mission house, Mr. Vernon Cotton factory, St. Mary's academy, Market house, Masonic temple, Post office and Custom house, St. Paul's church, Baptist church, M. E. church, M. G. church, South, Christ church, Porter's brewery, Whealey's undertaking establishment, Ramsey & Co. grocery store and Lunt & Davidson's drug store.

In the neighboring country the damage has been very heavy, but fortunately the hail was confined to a belt about a mile wide and but little inconvenience was felt outside of that belt. Among the principal sufferers from the damage to crops were Messrs. Geo. Ansh, Harvey Peck, Robert Smith and Peter Pallman. The green house at the Soldiers' cemetery was completely demolished while the growing plants in the grounds were cut down as though by a knife. The gable end of a house belonging to Mr. D. C. Watkins at West End was blown down and many trees and fences, both in town and country were destroyed.

The rain continued to fall in torrents during the night and the greater part of today.

SOUTHERN MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.—The Southern Memorial Association held a meeting last night at the Sun Bazaar House, with General M. D. Corso chairman, and J. R. Zimmerman secretary.

The committee to select an orator for Decoration Day reported that they had secured the services of General C. E. Hooker, of Mississippi.

The committee on music reported that they were making arrangements for a band.

A committee consisting of Major George Duffey, Dr. A. P. Cox and E. M. Lutham, was appointed to select a suitable place in which to have the memorial address. They have secured the main building at the Fair Grounds.

On motion the St. John's Academy Glee Club were invited to join in the procession on Decoration Day.

It was also requested that the citizens generally close their stores during the exercises and join with the association.

The procession was ordered to form at four p. m., on the 11th instant, on Washington street, right resting on Cameron, and will march up King street to the Fair Grounds, where the address will be delivered. After listening to it, the procession will re-form and march to the Soldiers' Cemetery, where the graves will be decorated. Committees will be detailed to visit the other cemeteries, as was done last year.

General M. D. Corso was elected chief marshal with authority to appoint his assistants.

The secretary was directed to have more badges prepared.

The committee appointed for that purpose at the last meeting reported the following resolutions which were adopted unanimously:

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God in His all-wise Providence to withdraw from our Society, our beloved comrade, Capt. W. D. Stuart, one of the vice presidents of this association, therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of Capt. Stuart the Southern Memorial Association of Alexandria has lost an able advocate, a strong friend and one of its most valuable members.

Resolved, That the members of this Association tender to the family of our deceased comrade their sincere sympathy in their great loss.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of our Association and published in the Gazette, and that a copy be transmitted to the family of the deceased.

M. D. CORSO,
A. F. COX,
J. M. STEVART,
H. J. NEVETT,
Committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

FLORAL AND FRUIT FESTIVAL.—The grand floral and fruit festival, at the Fair Grounds, will be held to-morrow.

It is feared, however, that the severe hail storm of yesterday, which passed over a part of the surrounding country, from which many exhibits were expected, will somewhat interfere with the display.

All fruits and flowers are required to be in place by 10 o'clock in the morning, when the judges will commence their rounds. The gates will be open to the general public at 11 a. m., and remain open until the same hour at night. After 9 p. m. exhibitors will be allowed to dispose of their exhibits. The admission has been placed at a low figure, and it is hoped that there may be a large attendance of citizens in order that farmers may be encouraged to have future exhibitions of the same kind.

STATE OFFICERS.—All State officers elected in this city are required by law to qualify before the Corporation Court at the June term succeeding their election. If Judge Mann, of Petersburg, should not arrive and open Court to-morrow, there can be no June term of the Court, and consequently the officers will have to wait till their successors qualify at the July term of the Court. This does not apply to Corporation officers.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.—During the progress of the storm at Anacostia, Prince George's county, Md., yesterday evening, Mr. William Taylor was standing in the door way of G. W. Taylor's store, watching his horse which was tied outside, when suddenly there came a blinding flash of lightning and the animal was struck dead. Mr. Carroll was so affected by the lightning that he had to be carried home. His escape from instant death was almost miraculous.

RUNAWAY.—Considerable excitement was created on King street, near Royal, this morning, by the running away of a horse attached to a load of wood. The animal ran for a few squares scattering the wood as he went, but was secured without damage to himself or others.

LOCAL BRIEVES.

LE. A. Marbury, of the Alexandria Light Infantry, left for Winchester this morning to engage quarters there for his company.

A negro man was arrested by Constable Gray this morning and carried before Justice Padgett on suspicion of having a horse stolen from near Cumberland. He proved, however, that the horse belonged to Capt. Deser, of Fairfax, and he was released.

Mr. George M. Duffey was struck on the head and slightly cut by one of the largest of the hail stones yesterday evening.

The glaziers have been reaping a harvest today, and their number has been supplemented by itinerant from Washington.

THE NORTHEAST PASSAGE.—Dispatches from St. Petersburg announce that Professor Nordenskjöld has solved the problem of the Northeast passage from Europe to the Pacific Ocean. The Vega has reached Bahrin's Straits and the Professor announces that he will return to Europe by the Suez Canal. Little is as yet known, at least accurately, of the Arctic Ocean, which the Swedish explorer seems to have safely traversed; its discovery and exploration hitherto called into play perhaps more skill and heroism than the world's discovery of all the rest of the world since the age of Columbus. About a century and a quarter ago the Muscovites simultaneously sent forth five expeditions to complete, it is possible, the northeast passage. In the voyage from the White Sea to the Obi four seasons were consumed, from the Obi to the Yancei four seasons, from the Yancei to the Lena season after season was spent in both directions without success, from Lena to Kolymer six seasons were occupied, from the Kolymer to the Pacific numerous efforts were made, but all were fruitless, though the Cossack Desoboff was known to have accomplished this part of the enterprise about a century before. After navigation, in fact, is beset by almost every imaginable difficulty and danger. In addition to the peculiar perils of ice in all possible states, the adventurer, often blinded by fog and snows has to face generally without guide or sea room, the storms, tides and currents of comparatively unknown waters. It is only by the three months of summer, the perils and difficulties of the nine months of winter are infinitely greater. Notwithstanding the labor and researches of two centuries and a half, very little of this vast ocean has been seen by men. This untrodden world, however, is not to be regarded as a continuous wilderness of ice. Parry, at the furthest point (82 degrees 45 seconds) found not an unbroken field of ice, but separate floes, with more or less open water between them, the thickness of the temperature being indicated by falls of rain; and Kice, at his furthest point (81 degrees 22 minutes) saw a free sea to the north, as the eye could reach from the promontory 240 feet high, while, to the south, was "a calm from the northeast, of 54 hours' duration, brought a heavy swell from that quarter without disclosing any drift or other ice."—N. Y. Star.

NO COUET.—A letter has been received from Judge Mann, of Petersburg, regretting that he cannot hold court here, owing to severe indisposition. He acknowledges the honor conferred on him by the invitation and again regrets his inability to comply with the wishes of the bar of Alexandria.

Headache arises from different causes. Certain headache is produced by an undue quantity of blood in the brain, to which high fever, robust people and young women are liable. Dr. Ball's Balmore Pills regulate the bowels and thus direct the current of blood from the brain. Price 25 cents.

The best FLANNEL SUITS, at $5, $8, $10 and $12, you will find at S. DEALHAM'S, 62 King st., corner of Fairfax.

TO THE PUBLIC!—Notwithstanding the strong pressure for "cheapness" goods to which most manufacturers have yielded by lowering both quality and price, I have maintained the highest standard of our product while reducing prices by every legitimate means. The people are tired of "shoddy" clothing, bought only from necessity, and the country's improvement is evidenced by the growing demand for better goods. For the spring of 1879 I have prepared one of the choicest stocks of Stylish Clothing I ever produced, and my prices are as low as the cost of labor and material will permit. Terms cash.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3, 1879.

The whole day, in the House, was consumed in a squabble about taking a vote on the bill in relation to the removal of causes from State to Federal courts, and in listening to an able, eloquent and interesting speech from Mr. Cox in opposition to the test oath imposed upon jurors in U. S. courts. During the debate on the court bill, Mr. Conger, when pressed for an answer, replied that it was the intention of the Republicans to transact no other business at this session than that in reference to the two appropriation bills. Messrs. Calkins and Garfield both took exceptions to this, and said that Mr. Conger did not represent them nor some others of their party. This rather desperate order of the "sweet singer from Michigan," as Mr. Conger has been dubbed, and he apparently took no interest in the subsequent proceedings. He is of that sort, however, who will not stay down when "set upon," [this, by the bye, is a Biblical expression,] and so will probably be as clamorously frisky as ever to-morrow. Among the bills introduced through the medium of the petition box, was one for the relief of Col. Tom Worthington, one of Geo. Sherman's numerous black boys.

The morning hour of the Senate was consumed in the consideration of silver bills, after which the postal route bill as passed by the House was taken up. The provisions of this bill, relative to new routes in Virginia, have been heretofore mentioned in this correspondence.

The House Committee on Claims have determined to take up and report at once a bill to pay all just claims of the employees of the House.

The Senate Military Committee instructed its chairman to move an executive session at an early hour to-day in order that the numerous army promotions may be disposed of.

The session of the joint democratic caucus committee, which commenced at eight o'clock last evening to receive the report of the subcommittee appointed to formulate what had been done at Saturday's session with reference to the appropriation bills, did not adjourn until after two o'clock this morning. It finally agreed to submit the report, which recommends the passage of the army bill, with a clause forbidding the use of money for soldiers at the polls; also the legislative bill without riders, but containing no provision for the payment of supervisors and deputy marshals of elections, and a bill repealing the test oath for jurors. The session was rather heated, a large portion of the time being consumed by Mr. Cox in advising a firm and decided stand against the encroachments of Mr. Hayes, and by Mr. Thurman in advocating a concession. Mr. Cox was quite severe upon Mr. Thurman for his change of policy, and Mr. Voorhees said it was not wonderful the rank and file of the party showed symptoms of demoralization when the leaders were so weakened.

The report will be presented to a joint session to be held this afternoon at which it is expected there will be music in the air, and the result of which looked forward to with fear and trembling, for though the "back door" in the opinion of some, is complete, there are about twenty members of the caucus who will consent to even a more ignominious surrender. The radicals are in excellent spirits, and say they will postpone their caucus until the bills, as prepared by the democrats, shall be reported, but that they will agree to no restrictions on the bills, and that, with the aid of the twenty democrats alluded to, they can pass the bill in any shape they may desire.

Judge Harris, chairman of the subcommittee to whom was referred the bill to readjust the accounts of certain States with the United States for advances made during the war of 1812, reported this morning to the full committee in favor of such readjustment and the payment of the sums ascertained to be due each State. The report was adopted, and the chairman directed to present it to the House and press its passage.

Speaker Randall has appointed Gen. Joseph Johnston a member of the board of visitors to the military academy at West Point.

Gen. Hooker, of Mississippi, who has accepted an invitation to deliver the address at the soldier's memorial services to be held in Alexandria on the 11th inst., is one of the most eloquent as well as graceful orators on the stage, and he has been warmly received at the hotel hospital it has granted his grace to the remaining one.

It is a matter of surprise that during all the debate on Mr. Hayes' veto the famous speech of Henry Clay denouncing Webster for resigning in Tyler's cabinet after the latter's veto of the bank bill, has not been alluded to. If some of the democrats who have made speeches on Mr. Hayes' veto had substituted Clay's speech for their own, how much better it would have been for them and the party they profess to represent.

The Finance Committee of the Senate met this morning and read the Warren Silver bill, but came to no conclusion respecting it. Dr. Garret, of Washington, was before the committee with reference to his bill for a change in the mode of collecting revenues on cigars. The bill for cancelling export bonds on manufacturer of tobacco, was not taken up. The committee will meet again on Friday.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House was to have met this morning, but there was no quorum. The evident purpose of this committee is to enter upon no more business at this session.

Mr. Sackett Mathews, whose appointment as U. S. Judge for the district of Maryland, has hung the Senate Committee on the Judiciary for some time past, will probably have to be content with the present position as one of the managers of the radical party.

As the committee has resolved to report adversely upon the nomination, and as the Senate will be likely to accept the committee's report.

A man named William Scott, of Frontstown, West Virginia, was arrested at the Capitol to-day on the charge of having swindled Mr. Henry Cook, clerk of the Senate Committee on Pensions, by means of a forged check, purporting to be signed by R. L. Jones, President of a Petersburg bank. When searched he had quite a number of forged checks in his pocket, all bearing the signature of the Mr. Jones, alias Hampton or Harner. He had by other forgeries succeeded in obtaining eighty odd dollars from Judge Elam, of Louisiana, and a considerable sum from Mr. Martin, of West Virginia, and it seems he has been living upon such forgeries for some time past. He attempted to swindle Rev. Dr. Bullock, chaplain of the Senate, but did not succeed, as the Doctor showed more knowledge of worldly affairs than those whose professions should have made them his superiors in such matters. As Mr. Cook was swindled in Alexandria the prisoner was turned over to Detective McDevitt to be conveyed to that city.

Mr. John Rossett, of Alexandria, has received a private commission for Florida, and will leave here to-morrow to execute it.

Another incantation has proven beyond doubt that Dr. Ball's Baby Syrup is the best medicine for teething children. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Avoid the very appearance of heat by having your clothes stored and kept until winter at Stensbury's, corner of King and Columbus sts. Call and see their new revolving Top Cook Stove.

Funeral of the Late E. C. Ingersoll.

The funeral of the late Hon. Eben C. Ingersoll took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence on K street, near Parson's, in Washington. The attendance was very large, the pews being very much crowded. The ceremonies were very simple. The remains were viewed by relatives and friends, and an oration was delivered by Col. Robt. G. Ingersoll, the well known "free thinker," and brother of the deceased.

Col. Ingersoll was very much overcome with the surroundings, and spoke while standing near the foot of the coffin containing his dead brother. He had officiated in this way on the occasion of the funeral of his father, and afterwards, several years since, at the burial of his own son. His voice was filled with emotion, and as he said that his brother had promised to perform the same duty for him had he fallen on the way to life before him, it was spoken with so much feeling that all of his hearers were visibly affected. Everything was conducted in the most simple and plain manner. Colonel Ingersoll spoke as follows:

"My Friends: I am going to do that which the dead old promised he would do for me. The loved and loving brother, husband, father, friend, died when manhood's morning almost touched noon, and while the shadows still were falling towards the west. He had not passed on life's highway the stone that marks the highest point, but being weary for a moment he laid down by the wayside, and, using his burden for a pillow, fell into that dreamless sleep that kisses down the eyelids still. While yet in love with life and reaped with the world he passed to silence and pathetic dust. Yet, after all, it may be best just to the happiest, sunniest hour of all the voyage, while eager winds are kissing every sail, to dash against the unseen rock, and in an instant hear the billows roar above a sunken ship. For whether in mid-air or among the breakers of the farther shore, a wreck must mark the end of each and all. And every life, no matter if its every hour is bright with love, every moment jeweled with a joy, will at the close become a tragedy as sad and deep and dark as the woven of the warp and woof of mystery and death. This brave and tender man, in every storm of life was oak and rock, but in the sunshine he was vine and flower. He was the friend of all heroic souls. He climbed the heights and left all superstitions far below, while on his forehead fell the golden dawning of a grander day. He loved the beautiful and was with color, form and music, touched to tears. He sided with the weak, and with a willing hand gave alms. With loyal heart and with the purest hands he faithfully discharged all public trusts. He was a worshipper of liberty, a friend of the oppressed. A thousand times I have heard him quote the words, 'For justice all powers, temples and altars are sacred ground.' He believed that justice was the only good, reason the only torch, justice the only worship, humanity the only religion, and love the only priest. He added to the sum of human joy, and was every one for whom he did some loving service to bring a blossom to his grave, he would sleep to-night beneath a wilderness of flowers. Life is a narrow vale between the old and barren peaks of two eternities. We strive in vain to look beyond the heights. We cry aloud and the only answer is the echo of our wailing cry. From the voiceless lips of the unreplying dead there comes no word; but in the night of death hope sees a star and listens, love can hear the rustle of a wing. He who sleeps here when dying—mistaking the approach of death for the return of health—whispered with his latest breath, 'I am better now.' Let us believe, in spite of doubts and dogmas, and tears and fears, that these dear words are true of all the countless dead. And now to you, who have been chosen from among the many men he loved to do the last and office for the dead, we give his sacred dust. Speech cannot contain our love. There was, there is no gentler, stronger, manlier man."

This concluded the service. The casket was then closed, and was carried to the home by Senators Blaine, Davis of Illinois, Padlock and Allison. Representatives Boyd, who now represents in Congress the district for several Congresses represented by the deceased, and Henderson of Illinois and Colonel Ward H. Lamon. Among other present were Secretary Sherman, Assistant Secretary Hawley and Senators Voorhees and Logan. The remains were then taken to the Oak Hill Cemetery, where they were temporarily deposited in the vault, the burial service being postponed in consequence of a driving rain storm, which was as soon as the funeral cortege, which was a very large one, started on its way to the cemetery. An affecting scene occurred when the Misses Lawler, daughters of the late General Lawler, and adopted children of Eben C. Ingersoll, to whom they were devotedly attached, took their last leave of their dead foster father. One of them fainted on being taken to her carriage, and the other lingered at the grave until almost forcibly led away by her friends.
